NDIS Provider Website Checklist

Six things every NDIS provider website needs, so participants, families and support coordinators can find you and contact you with ease.

1 Supports you offer

- One page for each support, such as support coordination or community participation
- A short, plain-language explanation of who it helps

2 Regions you service

- Suburbs, regions or states listed as text, not only in an image or map
- Remote or telehealth options stated clearly

3 A simple referral path

- Phone number and enquiry button on every page
- A short form: name, contact details, support needed and region
- A line telling people what happens next

4 Trust signals

- Registration details where relevant, team photos and short bios
- Genuine reviews, shared with permission, and no personal details without consent

5 Accessible design

- Strong colour contrast and a comfortable text size
- Descriptive alt text and a logical heading structure
- Labelled forms and keyboard-friendly buttons

6 Fast on mobile

- Pages load quickly on a phone
- Buttons and phone numbers are easy to tap
